

LYONS CHARGES FUNDS USED FOR CAMPAIGN ONLY

States Misappropriation Rife in New Deal System

Metropolis, Ill., May 28.—(AP)—Richard J. Lyons, Republican, opened his campaign for the United States Senate today with a charge that the New Deal was using funds to further its political aspirations.

In an address prepared for delivery before an audience of Little Egypt residents, Lyons said:

"At a time when millions have been thrown out of work by the policies of the New Deal, when thousands upon thousands of homeless and unemployed people upon relief are begging at the threshold of governmental agencies for food, we find the great humanitarianism of the New Deal waiting for relief to end before they are willing to act.

"With the population in every community in Illinois struggling for the right to live, we find appropriations for relief insufficient to alleviate suffering and to aid the unemployed. No, the great humanitarianism wait and wait until chaos reigns. Then they decide that it is time for them to come in and again be the saviors.

"They call a special session of the legislature to appropriate another meager sum from the state treasury, while millions of dollars of state funds are lying idle in that same state treasury. . . . Money originally collected for the very purpose of feeding the poor."

Rakes Political Abuses
Lyons said in his judgment the attitude of the present administration was "a horrible spectacle of political power appropriating for relief thinly disguised campaign funds." He continued:

"They hope to make the unfortunate believe that this money is being used by their grace, that they and not the people of Illinois are furnishing the funds for relief purposes. Why have not the people in authority set up a plan that would prevent these crises from recurring every few months, and especially just before certain elections?"

"In my judgment, their activities are criminal. The use of government tax money to carry on a political campaign is only a step away from direct appropriation of funds to perpetuate a political dynasty. That would be outright dictatorship.

"Today in Iowa you see the flagrant violation of a fundamental principle of democratic government when a man in Washington has the power of life and death over unfortunate citizens of that state and uses the WPA and relief funds as he pleases to elect one of his particular clique of New Dealers to public office."

Accompanying Lyons were the other Republican candidates for state and national offices, Senator Simon E. Lantz and Stephen A. Day, candidates for congressmen; Lantz, William R. McCauley, candidate for state treasurer; Wiley E. Garvin, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction; and George E. Lambur, Jr., candidate for clerk of the Illinois supreme court.

Memphis Refuses To Tolerate New State Policemen

A blunt warning from city officials of Memphis that they would tolerate no interference from the newly-created Tennessee state police brought dangerous potentialities today into the warfare between Governor Gordon Browning and Edward H. Crump, veteran Shelby county political leader.

Browning suddenly established the state police force yesterday under a 1919 statute. More than 30 men were sworn in.

The governor said this step was necessary to "protect the citizens' rights" as the aftermath of alleged "political beatings" here.

Mayor Watkins Overton, Sheriff Guy Joyner and Police Commissioner Clifford Davis united in opposing the governor's action.

"We will keep right on running the city of Memphis, enforcing the laws and ordinances, and will not tolerate interference from any illegal police force appointed by his majesty," said Mayor Overton.

Crump supported Browning in the 1936 campaign but they fell out several months ago. Browning is seeking renomination in the August 4 Democratic primary.

Proclamation

The time of the year has again arrived when by custom and decree, we do honor to the memory of our departed soldiers. It is also a time for sober and solemn thought on the real import of the occasion.

Our Memorial Day association, comprised of representative members of our patriotic organizations, has made extensive preparations for the proper observance of this event, that the citizens of this community may show their true appreciation and reverence for the services rendered by these honored dead.

Therefore, by the power in me vested, I proclaim Monday, May 30th, a legal holiday, urge and request that our flag be profusely and properly displayed, that all business be suspended, at least during the hours of the program, and that all of our citizens make special effort to take part in the celebration.

YOUNG CARROLL IS ACQUITTED

Psychopathic Examination Awaiting Love Slayer

New York, May 28.—(AP)—Acquitted of murdering the girl he loved, 16-year-old Donald Carroll, Jr., today saw only a psychopathic examination between him and his return to "Moon and Pop."

Moved by the boy's troubled story of how he shot Charlotte Mathiesen, 18, "at her request" because she was pregnant and feared disgrace, a jury of middle-aged married men last night returned a verdict of "not guilty because of insanity." They deliberated two hours and 56 minutes.

County Judge Thomas Downs immediately ordered the boy held for mental observation.

Cheering spectators and the jubilant parents of both Donald and Charlotte, who had worked together to save the youth from punishment in a "tragedy of adolescence," hailed the verdict.

Laughter and Tears
The parents met with laughter and tears in the office of Defense Attorney Sydney Rosenthal.

"My prayers are answered," said Donald's mother.

"My girl would like the verdict," said Charlotte's mother, Mrs. Fred Mathiesen. "I want the boy to come to my house again."

Both the state and the prosecution contended the boy is now sane, the defense holding he was temporarily insane when he killed Charlotte last March but failed to complete his suicide pact in his sudden panic to save her.

Defense Attorney Rosenthal was confident Donald would be sent home to his parents—probably next week—after a routine stay in Bellevue's psychiatric ward.

Wrong Number

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 28.—(AP)—"Now we'll all join in singing No. 7 in our song books," said the chairman at the Welland county W. C. T. U. convention.

Pages rustled, throats were cleared. Then came gasps.

The song—No. 7—was: "There's a Tavern in the Town."

"It was all a mistake," the chairman explained. "In my book No. 7 is 'Get Together.'"

Four Members of Bremen Crew Are Held at Sea as Spy Hunt Witnesses

New York, May 28.—(AP)—While the German liner Bremen was far at sea today, four members of its crew were held in default of bail totaling $40,000 as material witnesses in the government's widening international spy hunt.

U. S. Attorney Lamar Hardy, remarking in Federal court yesterday that several vital witnesses in the inquiry had vanished, said he had reason to believe the men would not return if permitted to sail.

Edward Conahan, attorney for the North German Lloyd Line, promised to furnish bond though he termed it "grossly excessive."

500 KILLED, 1000 INJURED IN AIR RAID ON CANTON

Entire City Blocks, Railway Station Are Demolished

Hongkong, May 28.—(AP)—Official estimates counted 500 persons killed and 1,000 injured in Canton after daylong Japanese air raids on the crowded gateway of southern China.

Entire city blocks were reduced to ruins by the devastating raids. The Japanese raiders, flying low over the shattered Wongsha railway station district, were reported to have followed their attacks by machine-gunning rescue workers digging in the ruins for victims.

Forty persons were said to have been killed and 50 injured in the hail of machine-gun bullets.

Then the Japanese airmen turned their death-reeling projectiles around the Wongsha station of the Hangkow-Canton railway line over which men and munitions have poured into central China to fight the Japanese invaders.

City a Shambles
The railways apparently was the principal objective of the bitter attack which spread out to include closely-packed civilian districts.

Wongsha was converted into a shambles by four succeeding raids.

The Japanese airmen turned their attention to the city's central district in the vicinity of Central park and the Canton mayor's office, narrowly missing the city hospital for the poor. An entire block of houses was reduced to tangled timbers and mortar.

The Tungshan residential suburb, formerly the home of Canton's foreign residents, was next with an uncounted shower of deadly bombs.

Many values are received by children from playground activities. They are kept off the streets, developed in physical appearance, stimulated in intelligence, shown principles of good sportsmanship, honesty, justice and loyalty and they gain enjoyment and intelligent direction of their leisure time.

Monmouth, Ill., May 28.—(AP)—More than 650 pounds of silver dollars will be distributed here today to employees of the Illinois Bankers Life Assurance Company in the company's semi-monthly payroll.

Spokesmen of the company said its 250 employees were to be paid in "cartwheels" to show the importance of the payroll to business life of the community. They urged that the silver be spent to pay bills and buy needed merchandise rather than deposited in banks.

15 SUSPECTS OF RAPE SLAYING QUESTIONED

Chicago, May 28.—(AP)—Fifteen suspects were questioned today by detectives seeking a Negro night prowler who stole into Mrs. Florence Johnson's apartment while she slept and bludgeoned her to death with a brick.

Meanwhile, roving police squads were assigned to the vicinity of the crime in the south side Hyde Park district and detectives were made available for women who desired night police escort.

Special details have been on duty at hospitals and nurses' homes since the slaying of Miss Anne Kuchta, a student nurse. An officer stationed at the Wesley Memorial hospital, fired shots early today at a Negro prowler.

Capt. Ray Crane expressed the opinion the slayer of Mrs. Johnson, 34, wife of a city fireman, was the same man who killed Miss Kuchta last August in her room at a hospital in the same district.

Mrs. Johnson's assailant entered the apartment early yesterday, through a window in a room occupied by her sleeping children, Kenneth, 5, and Florence, 3.

The victim's moans awakened her sister, Miss Margaret Whitton, who glimpsed the Negro as he fled. One suspect, Robert Nixon, was seized near the apartment. Miss

Woman Arrested on Kidnaping Charge

North Tonawanda, N. Y., May 28.—(AP)—Chief of Police Frederick A. Hoefert announced today he had arrested Mrs. Anna LeGare, 41, of North Tonawanda, on a kidnaping charge in connection with the disappearance of Betty Jane Hobb, four, missing from home for a week.

Hoefert said he was investigating Mrs. LeGare's story to police that she had taken Betty Jane with her on a trip and had left her safely in Coolville, Ohio.

Meanwhile, in Coolville, Mayor Luther C. Bradford said he had located a girl, tentatively identified as Betty Jane, at the home of a sister of Mrs. LeGare.

Betty Jane, daughter of a WPA employee, disappeared from home last Saturday and became the object of a widespread search by police and American legionnaires.

Hoefert said Mrs. LeGare claimed to have had the mother's permission to take the child with her but the child's mother denied having given her permission and swore out a warrant for Mrs. LeGare's arrest.

RUSSIA HURLS WAR THREAT AT FASCIST FOES

Moscow, May 28.—(AP)—A threat to beat Soviet Russia's enemies with the latest war technique if they involve the Union in conflict came today out of the Ukraine, Red outpost in central Europe.

The threat was made in a resolution adopted at Kiev, Ukrainian capital, by a mass meeting urging Joseph Stalin to become the rich agricultural region's nominee for the supreme soviet.

Since such resolutions generally follow a party line laid down by highest Soviet officials, the declaration was considered significant, particularly in light of Soviet declarations of readiness to fulfill the mutual assistance pact with anxious Czechoslovakia.

N. S. Khrushchiff, Communist party secretary for the Ukraine, who is close to Stalin, sounded the keynote of the meeting with a warning that Russia's enemies would "dig their own graves" if they attacked.

The resolution said: "The Soviet Ukraine is keeping its powder dry. German cur knights and Polish cur gentlemen have had more than one lesson in history."

"Our people used to beat them with swords, pitchforks, clubs, axes, bayonets and used to crush them under the hooves of horses. Now they are going to beat them, not with clubs, but with machine-guns, planes and tanks. x x x

"They will beat them to extermination in the territory whence the fascists come."

Unknown Man Dies From Self-Imposed Fast In Hospital

Kankakee, Ill., May 28.—(AP)—Pulled from the path of a railroad train near Cheshane, Ill., two weeks ago, a man who refused to disclose his identity and persistently declined food and drink died today in the Kankakee state hospital.

Physicians said death resulted from the man's self-enforced fast. The victim was brought from the county jail to the hospital by Sheriff Phil Brown a week ago. Forced feeding and intravenous injections were administered but he failed to respond.

Services for Former Lieutenant Governor to be in Family Church

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—(AP)—In the tiny cloistered church his mother built on the family estate nearly a half century ago, funeral services will be held at 3 P. M. tomorrow for former Lieutenant Governor John G. Oglesby.

Oglesby, who died at age 60 Thursday after an extended illness, was a ward of the St. John's Episcopal church and one of its five regular parishioners. The others were his niece, Mrs. William M. Drake, church trustee; his half brother's daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Keays Drake, organist; William M. Drake and Mrs. Oglesby.

No collection plate ever has been passed in the chapel, which was built on the "Oglesbury" country estate by Mrs. Richard J. Oglesby in 1890. It is the only privately-owned, self-supporting house of worship in the state. Its minister, Rev. John A. Betcher of Lincoln, who will assist Bishop John C. White of Springfield in the services tomorrow, is paid from a trust consisting of the income from 80 acres of land.

The chapel has known both joy and sadness. Funeral services were held there for Oglesby's father, Richard J. Oglesby, twice governor of Illinois and United States Senator. Mr. and Mrs. Drake were married there.

Swing Music

Chicago, May 28.—(AP)—Nicholas Szaklenski, 35, didn't like the swing music coming from the radio.

When he suggested the program be changed, Miss Adeline Leskanes, 16, objected.

That enraged Szaklenski, a boarder at the Leskanes home. He left the living room last night, reappeared with a pistol and seriously wounded Miss Leskanes.

Detective John McVeigh said that was the story told by the girl's brother, Vincent, 14, whom McVeigh said witnessed the attack. The detective said the boarder returned to his own room, where police later found him dead, a bullet wound in his head.

AUTO MAKERS TO FACE TRUE BILL

Big Three of Industry Charged With Trust Laws Violation

South Bend, Ind., May 28.—(AP)—The big three of the automobile industry—General Motors Corporation, Ford Motor Company and Chrysler Corporation—faced today federal grand jury indictments charging conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust law.

Government attorneys, "satisfied" in a second attempt for action, planned early trials of the cases.

The government had failed in its first attempt to get indictments against the motor companies. A Milwaukee grand jury making an investigation, was dismissed Dec. 17, 1937.

The charges, contained in three separate indictments, named the three companies, their affiliated finance companies and 50 individuals. All were charged with conspiring to promote monopoly by coercing dealers to finance car sales through the companies' own finance firms.

Those Indicted

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of the board, and William S. Knudsen, president, were named with 17 other individuals in an indictment against the General Motors Corporation, the General Motors Sales Corporation and the General Motors Acceptance Corporation.

The Ford Motor Company, the Universal Credit Corporation and divisions, Edsel Ford and 12 other persons were named in another.

The third indictment included in its charges the Chrysler Corporation, the Chrysler Sales Corporation, Dodge Brothers Company, DeSoto Motor corporation, the Plymouth Motor Corporation and the Commercial Credit Company and its branches. Walter P. Chrysler, president of the firm, and 17 other individuals also were named.

The grand jury's report, issued to Judge Thomas W. Slick in federal court here yesterday, ended a five-day investigation that saw a parade of nearly 300 witnesses, subpoenaed from over the midwest, testify.

Wheat Prices Drop Throughout World

Chicago, May 28.—(AP)—Wheat prices tumbled sharply throughout the world today, largely influenced by the prospect of a huge harvest in the United States within the next month.

Chicago prices slumped more than three cents a bushel, falling below 70 cents a bushel for the first time in five years. July wheat, which represents the new crop about to be harvested, dropped to 68 cents, off as much as 3 1/2 compared with last night. July wheat closed at 69-69 1/8.

The decline of wheat took corn, oats and rye prices to new low levels for the past several years in Chicago.

His Aim is Bad

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—(AP)—Andrew Eandi, whose aim is bad, set a tin can on a rail, stepped back, and blazed away with his shotgun.

O'DELL WOMAN'S MONEY RECOVERED BY SHERIFF

Arrest of Gypsy Woman At Carnival Here Brings Restitution

Mrs. Susan Nicolay of Odell, Ill., called the sheriff's office here last night about 10 o'clock armed with a warrant issued at Odell, in which a gypsy fortune teller was charged with "swindling by slight of hand". Mrs. Nicolay had trailed a carnival company to Dixon and with officers from the sheriff's office went to the grounds west of the city, where she pointed out a woman, named in the warrant as Mary Doe, whom the Odell woman charged had victimized her of the sum of $217.

The fortune teller was taken to the county jail and gave the name of Betty Stanley. This morning another delegation of gypsies arrived in Dixon from Aurora and offered restitution of the $217, which was accepted and forwarded to the Odell woman by the sheriff.

Mrs. Nicolay told the officers that about three weeks ago, while the carnival was showing in Streator, she had obtained a reading from the gypsy woman and sought advice on a subject. During the seances and readings, which lasted over a period of days, the fortune teller visited Mrs. Nicolay at Odell and finally accompanied her to Dwight, where the money was withdrawn from the bank, without the knowledge of Mrs. Nicolay's relatives who accompanied her on the trip.

No Prosecution

In the final seance, the fortune teller was said to have pretended to have wrapped the money in a cloth and then after mysterious passes, entrusted the parcel to Mrs. Nicolay with the advice that she place it beneath her pillow for a period of at least 24 hours before disturbing the contents. In the meantime the carnival left Streator and when Mrs. Nicolay opened the package she found it contained five crumpled cigarettes and not the sum of money which she believed was wrapped in the cloth.

A few days ago she made known to relatives the result of her experience and an investigation was started, tracing the carnival company to Dixon and the eventual return of the money. There was no prosecution and the fortune teller was released after the money had been paid over.

Drum Was Stolen

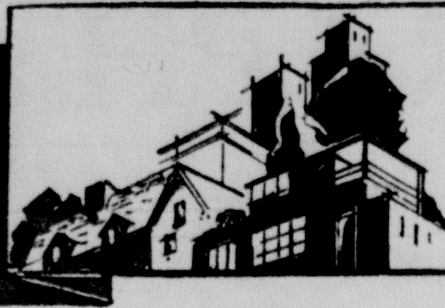

Robert Sterling early this morning reported that a bass drum valued at about $85 was stolen from the rumble seat of his car which he parked near the entrance of the carnival grounds about 1 o'clock this morning. The sheriff's office was notified of the robbery and launched an investigation. A Negro reported to be employed by one of the shows, was said to have been seen running between the tents with the drum at the early hour this morning. Officers of the carnival company were informed of the theft and instructed to deliver the drum to the sheriff's office this morning. The order was obeyed and the stolen drum was returned to its owner undamaged.

Mrs. Schafer Hurt In Auto Accident

A sedan driven by Mrs. Harry Slick of this city crashed into the rear of a small truck operated by Harry Dockery, employed at the cement plant, on the cement plant hill at about 12:45 P. M. today. The front end of the sedan was almost telescoped when it struck the truck, and slid beneath the truck body which was loaded with kindling.

Mrs. John Schafer was said to have been the worst injured of the four women and at the hospital it was believed that she had sustained fractured ribs and chest injuries. Mrs. Slick and the other passengers were bruised and suffered from shock. The truck was only slightly damaged and the driver escaped injury. Dockery told State Officer Edward Mahan, who was called to the scene of the wreck, that his truck had stopped on the hill when the gasoline supply became exhausted.

PORCHES

Always Popular

Porches are an American institution and apparently grow in favor annually.

People use their porches more than formerly. In addition to the living porch, there are entrance stoops, sun porches, sleeping porches, balconies and terraces.

One tendency is for greater privacy in the living porch and we find that the old type of front porch is steadily losing favor. Instead, the living porch is separated from the front entrance, often at the side of the house or at the rear, possibly opening on to a garden where quiet and rest prevail. All are screened and many are built with permanent glass enclosures or arranged so that they may be glazed in for winter.

For those who like sleeping porches this room may well be placed over an attached garage or over a first floor porch. Be sure there is a tight railing about 30 inches high and provision to keep out inclement weather.

The open air porch for nude sun bathing is almost a necessity as the therapeutic value of the sun's rays are becoming more generally recognized, as a health measure and, as such, the open porch is coming in to its own. Needless to say, such a porch calls for cunning planning in order to provide the user with privacy from the curious. High, tight railings or screens may be provided to accomplish privacy.

PAINT

Protects the Surface

Not only will paint protect the surface, but it will give new character to your house. Old houses may be completely transformed simply by painting and decorating the house—both inside and out.

Try a new color scheme the next time you paint. Charts on color combinations for both interiors and exteriors may be obtained, from which you may develop ideas.

Furniture responds just as quickly to a new dress, and you can do wonders with a little lacquer or paint in changing color schemes and indeed the entire character of a room.

REAR LIVING ROOMS

If you are to have a garden in the rear of your house, why not place the living rooms at the rear overlooking this spot of beauty and fragrance, and where your main rooms will be quiet and remote from the noise of the street?

Planting against the front of your house with shrubs, closely massed, will make an interesting picture from the street and if the kitchen is so located as to have one wall toward the street, it will make delivery of supplies quite easy.

This arrangement is also desirable when the house faces a lake or park or some other beauty spot.

WORK MUST BE LEVEL

I imagine the most common defect of cheap and careless carpentry is the failure to produce walls and partitions that are truly vertical, plumb and straight, and floors that are really level. It is not uncommon in cheap work to find rooms where the floors are over an inch out of level, since this variation is not perceptible to the eye.

The pity of poor carpentry is that after the plastering, painting, etc., is completed, faulty frame work cannot be corrected without great expense.

SHELVES

Shelves vary in depth for particular uses. A graded arrangement of narrow shelves with but one row of articles on a shelf is most efficient; for dry groceries, spices, etc., a four inch shelf is proper.

The boy was the center of a group of admiring men and women. He had crawled out on thin ice to rescue a playmate who had broken through.

THREE FLOOR LEVELS

This very charming living room with three floor levels has a ceiling formed by the framing of the roof. Note the unusual arrangement of the bookshelves and the balcony at the end of the room as well as the rough-textured walls of plaster carry out the informal feeling of the style, which is of English characteristics. The walls may be decorated or left natural, as desired. R. Harold Zook was the architect.

Reading circle seals were earned by Genevieve Potts, John and Urban Martenson. Urban Martenson successfully passed the eighth grade final examination with an average of 88 1/2. He has a three year perfect attendance record. The teacher, Miss Edna Miller, has been re-engaged to teach for next year.

A number of ladies were entertained recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Beard, at which Mrs. Beard announced the approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Dorothy Beard. Miss Beard will become the bride of William Shipper.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dempsey and family, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Cramer and children and Mrs. Addie Blackburn of Dixon and Mr. and Mrs. Callahan and daughters of Deer Grove, were guests on Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Considine.

Mrs. Harry Gaskill, Mrs. Marion Gaskill and Mrs. Janet Fluck motored to Ohio on Wednesday and were entertained with dinner at the Ace cafe by the former's sister, Miss Lena Lane. Other guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson and children.

Miss Mary Whitmore, who became the bride of Delbert Knapp Jr., on Sunday afternoon, was tendered a miscellaneous shower on Friday afternoon in the basement of the M. E. church. Mary received many lovely articles for her new home in Laurens, Iowa, and the best wishes for a happy wedded life, from the guests present. Delicious angel food cake and ice cream were served by the hostesses of the afternoon, Mrs. Goble Wadsworth, Mrs. Joe Smallwood and Mrs. Edward Schoaf.

Relatives and friends of Mrs. Vernon Perkins of Amboy were sorry to hear of an automobile accident in which she sustained a broken left arm and numerous cuts and bruises about the head. Mrs. Perkins and her two children were enroute to Dixon in a car driven by Mrs. Leroy Flynn, when the car overturned as Mrs. Flynn attempted to pass a truck, the wheel of her car slid in the gravel along the shoulder, thus overturning. The children were not injured, but Mrs. Flynn sustained painful bruises and cuts on her left arm and head.

Give LOCAL LABOR a "Break"

Patronize Local Lumber Dealers and Let LOCAL LABOR Do the Work!

Every year Dixon and vicinity is visited by fly-by-night, out-of-town roofers and asbestos shingle salesmen, who pick off the cream of the business, employ no local labor to do their work, and then are gone. Roofing contracts, porch enclosures and asbestos siding jobs are all in their line.

NATIONALLY RECOGNIZED BRANDS!

After these transient contractors have gone, there is nobody to fall back on if the job is not satisfactory. Misrepresentation and below quality materials must stand as they are. The homeowner is definitely the loser in all such cases, of which there have been many in this city.

CAN BE FINANCED MONTHLY!

You can have your work done just as cheaply with nationally recognized materials and by LOCAL LABOR by consulting the WILBUR LUMBER COMPANY. We can also arrange for a convenient monthly payment plan. Beware of out-of-town roofer's mortgage and lien protection for his time payment plan.

New Entrances

For Old

Modern entrance doors for old homes, in stock designs, cost little to install. Many older houses have an unattractive front entrance door which greatly detracts from the appearance of the home. Ofttimes the exterior of the house is not otherwise bad.

You may be able to recondition your home and bring it further up to date at slight cost by simply removing the old entrance door and frame and substituting a new, fresh design.

There are some houses that seem to invite one to come right in; most always the effect of the entrance doorway is responsible for this hospitable air. But just any doorway will not do. The entrance must harmonize with the design of the house and be in perfect proportion.

One of the details by which you can modernize your home is by removing the present old entrance doorway which is probably outmoded, worn and better discarded and replaced with an attractive and correctly designed front doorway.

This is not such an expensive task as one would think, for there are any number of well-designed and nicely-constructed doorways available to the home owner from stock designs. Such a doorway as illustrated is particularly adapted to a frame Colonial house. Treat your home to a new entrance; it will help to make your home attractive and make better first impressions.

BRICK WORK

Many Textures

Much beauty and interest is now being built into houses of common brick. Many of the leading architects have suggested artistic textures so that one's choice of effects is almost unlimited. The more you study the possibilities of this material, the more you realize its great artistic value.

Textures vary considerably—from smooth, geometrical designs to rough, random patterns known as skintled brickwork. Combined with the warm, cheerful colors of brick as laid in various patterns may be deeply raked-out mortar joints or joints left with the mortar extruding. The mortar may be tinted in contrasting or supplementary tones.

Brickwork needs no painting for protection, but the painting of common brick with whitewash or tinted paint improves with the effect of age and weathering.

Used in combination with slate and tile roofs, copper and zinc gutters and downspouts, exposed oak timbers and plate glass, it is a beautiful material from which to construct your home, and the cost in the long run proves economical.

CLOSETS

Detached pantries, food closets and butler's pantries are poor investments in a small home; they occupy valuable space and require needless steps and labor. Cupboards are now placed in the kitchen where supplies are easily accessible without retracing steps to and from a pantry.

It is well to spend a small portion of the total expenditure for your home in architectural services—not only for the plans but the supervision of construction. The superintending of the erection of the home forms the most valuable feature of an architect's services.

Mid-West's Oldest Building to Return To Original Site

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—(AP)—The old Cahokia courthouse—believed to be the oldest public building in the middle-west—is going back home to its original site.

State public works and buildings officials said the structure, now in Chicago's Grant park where it was moved years ago, is to be hauled to the little St. Clair county village before the end of the year for an Illinois memorial.

In an effort to restore the building as nearly as possible to its original appearance, the state architect's office is carefully going over the plans and doing research to fully uncover details.

IT LOOKED BAD IN 1857, TOO

It is pretty cold comfort, when you are feeling blue, to be told that other people have felt blue before and have got over it. But if you can be shown that these other people felt blue in exactly the same way you do, had the same reasons you have for thinking they would never feel any better, and yet somehow did win through to sunny optimism once more—well, maybe that would help a little.

The publishing house of Harper & Brothers the other day dug up an editorial from Harper's Weekly, printed on Oct. 10, 1857, and for one reason and another the thing makes especially interesting reading right now.

"It is a gloomy moment in history," lamented the editor in 1857. "Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time."

"In our own country there is universal commercial prostration and panic, and thousands of our poorest fellow citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment and without the prospect of it."

"In France the political cauldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent upon the horizon of Europe; while all the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly disturbed relations in China."

The editor went on at considerable length in this vein, and his conclusion was that times were parlous and that there was little hope in this world; but if he lived long enough he assuredly saw the storm clouds of 1857 dissipated and came out into a world wherein a man could be fairly satisfied with the present and decently hopeful about the future.

The interesting thing about it, of course, is the fact that you would need to change only half a dozen words or so in order to make that old Harper's Weekly scree perfectly timely for use today.

Once again we live amid "grave and deep apprehension." Once again the future has "seemed incalculable." Once again we suffer from "commercial prostration and panic." The French political cauldron is seething and bubbling again. Russia is still a dark cloud, the British empire is still in a tight place—and so on and so on, sentence by sentence.

But somehow the world did live through 1857 and the dire events which lay on 1857's horizon, and became a better and happier place.

Is one being a fatuous optimist to suggest that we shall ultimately be able to say the same thing of 1938 and its troubles?

ENLIGHTENMENT

The voice of indignation in this country over primitive habits of thought and primitive conduct in foreign lands suddenly sounds a little hollow.

A 60-year-old Indian woman in a small town in Indiana becomes an object of suspicion of her neighbors, who know what they know about the practices of witchcraft. The pay-off comes when a delegation descends on the prosecutor's office with a demand for punishment.

Stories of muttered curses, magic brews, and the casting of evil spells are told. A prosecutor's scorn is no match for this delegation's convictions. A trial for witchcraft is not possible under the law, so the woman and her husband are charged with vagrancy, and the community's peace of mind is restored to some extent when the couple are banished from the town.

The only bright spot in the story is that when the order to leave is given, the woman and her husband both declare that they're tickled to death to get out. You can't blame them.

What the news commentators in foreign countries may do with this one if they get hold of it is something to meditate on.

BLOCK THAT CHIP

Finally it appears to have been discovered exactly what's the matter with everybody. The child is father to the man—and what a child! He's a chip, unfortunately, off the old block.

This all sounds a little circular, but it just had to come out after a glance at the findings of a New York University professor who made a study of boys in school.

"One half of New York's students play too hard," he observed, "and the other half work too hard." Which is exactly what seems to be the matter with the grown-ups.

The boys, he said, are "constantly running from one place to another." Not at all an exclusively juvenile habit. "Students working on required courses are noticeably more nervous than on chosen subjects." The case with adults exactly.

"The answer to the problem," the professor concludes, "is quiet relaxation, walking and reading."

If only there were time. There's just so many required subjects.

Police Lose Hope For Missing Girl

As hope waned for safety of 4-year-old Betty Jane Hobbs, top photo, police at North Tona-wanda, N. Y., announced belief that the child had been slain, after they found her white shoes and brown jacket, shown in lower photo, in a weed field. The girl's mother said the child could not have removed the shoes herself, as they were tied with double knots.

WASHINGTON — While Congress has been debating increased naval appropriations, one of the greatest peacetime scandals in U. S. Navy annals has been under secret investigation by a Board of Inquiry in Honolulu.

Cause of the probe is the fact that between January 5 and March 30 of this year a total of 31 of the Navy's finest fliers crashed to death at sea, while seven long-range patrol bombers, costing around $200,000 apiece, crashed with them. The loss, measured in material alone, was around $1,400,000.

The tragedies all occurred during the war games near the San Diego and Hawaii bases. No trace whatsoever has been found of four of the great twin-engined bombers, despite search by hundreds of planes and ships, nor of the men who vanished with them.

Just as mysterious as disappearance of the bombers has been the hearing behind the walls of the Board of Inquiry. Sworn to secrecy, the Board has now finished its work, and its final report is being checked in Washington. Some announcement will be made of its findings, but much of the report will remain a carefully-guarded naval secret.

From naval pilots who flew some of the big planes, however, the chief reasons for the unprecedented disasters of last winter have been ascertained.

Private testimony of the pilots indicates that the time still may be a long way off before airplanes can play any vital part in naval warfare—despite the hundreds of bombers the Navy now is building.

Scouting Air Fleet

Most important factor leading to the naval aviation disasters was the new strategy of using airplanes in place of scouting ships. Instead of using destroyers to locate the "enemy" fleet, airplanes flew far out to sea, attempted to locate the enemy, reported its location by radio, later reported warship gunfire results.

They simply could not do the trick.

Although this was the basic cause of the air tragedies, the following also were contributory causes:

1. Planes were ordered into the air in weather when it was almost certain that some of them could not come back.

2. Pilots were so exhausted physically and mentally from long hours in the air that they should not have been permitted to go on duty.

3. Top naval aviation commanders are older men who would have trouble getting a kite aloft in a sale.

The last is one of the chief complaints of the younger pilots, who claim that high-ranking naval aviation officers were trained in the small, slow planes of years gone by and know little of the problems of flying the fast 18-ton bombers of today—especially in the formation flights at night or through storms.

A check for naval aviation commanders also shows that many of them were trained chiefly aboard warships, transferring to naval aviation largely because of extra pay. Naval aviation pays time and a half, the extra money being for the risk. In order to qualify for this risk money an aviator must spend hours monthly in the air; but many of the older officers merely go aloft with younger officers. The senior officers may never touch the controls, but by logging pilotage time can collect their extra money.

Air Fatigue

Fatigue, the dread of the modern airman, also was an important accident factor, according to the pilots participating in the recent war games. The log books show that many of the crews flew more than 50 hours in four days. One crew had been 20 hours in the air searching for a lost bomber, then was ordered into the air again for a 9-hour flight, with only six hours' sleep in between. One officer, since dead, flew 41 hours out of 44.

The Navy counts time off from the moment a crew steps out of the plane until its members report for duty next morning—possibly ten hours. Actually it is impossible to rest up from a long flight in that time. Physical adjustments are slow, internal organs fail to

1. That is what John Beeckman, author, maintains. He thinks such window shopping will show a woman what men generally like, whether it be pipes or a special brand of tobacco, loud or drab neckties or shirts, socks or—well we won't go further at present.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. I spoke recently of the study by Maurice Smith, Cal. Univ. psychologist, of the attitudes held by parents, teachers and high school seniors on 120 controversial social questions. On the 32 questions referring to family functions, obligations and relationships the agreement of parents, teachers and students was astonishing. It showed that young people today hold practically the same attitudes about home, marriage, children and all family obligations as did their parents, and that the home is not losing its hold and young people are not changing much as to the ideal home they want for themselves. A most encouraging conclusion.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. In a noble passage, Prof. William James pictured a man who, in climbing a mountain, comes to a chasm which he must leap or perish. He cannot go back. He summons all the strength he can but believes he will fail, and he probably will and fall to his death. But with the same effort, if he fully expects to succeed he probably will. This is true of all human life. Belief in one's self unifies all his powers while lack of faith scatters them. function normally for many hours.

After a day or two of continuous flight, fliers are near mental as well as physical exhaustion. They become fearful of their reactions, frequently react the wrong way in an emergency.

Younger pilots also point out that although planes are checked almost daily, Navy pilots get only one regular physical examination per year.

These factors, plus the necessity of launching planes in peacetime weather when ever surface craft were forced to proceed with the utmost caution, are what caused near-hysteria in the Navy air communities at Honolulu and San Diego last winter.

At one time this hysteria became so intense several of the pilots of the North Island air base turned in their wings and asked to be transferred to another branch of the Navy.

This aviation "sit-down strike" was hushed up, but resentment continues among many of the younger pilots who demand the following:

1. Creation of a separate aviation branch for the Navy similar to the Army air corps.
2. Command of air operation by officers who are thoroughly trained in aviation, including actual flying of high-speed bombers under "simulated war conditions."

3. Regular and compulsory medical examinations, eight hours of bunk time during flight maneuvers, and competent medical officers to prevent over-fatigued pilots from flying.

4. Reserve personnel so that flight crews not in condition for operating will be relieved from the present overwork conditions. (Copyright, 1938, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

COCHRANE PUT ONE OVER ON DYKES AGAIN

Kennedy, Hurler Jim
Traded Off, Beats
Former Mates

Associated Press Sports Writer
Jimmy Dykes bit his big black cigar clean in half, threw both ends clear out past first base, and mumbled to himself: "I'll get that Cochrane guy yet, even if I have to kidnap his saxophone."

Vernon Kennedy, the pitcher Jimmy "cast off" last winter, had just stopped Dykes' Chicago White Sox with six hits for his seventh straight win. And over in the victorious Detroit Tigers' dugout, Mickey Cochrane, Dykes' pal and All-American goat getter, might have been snickering up his sleeve.

The story starts, of course, in the days when Mickey and Jimmy, teammates for years on the Athletics, were traded to the Tigers and White Sox, respectively.
Each became manager of his new club, and since then each has been trying to get the other's goat.

Last December, Jimmy engineered a player swap by which his Sox gave up Pitcher Kennedy, Outfielder Dixie Walker and Infielder Tony Piet to Mickey's Tigers. In return, Outfielder Gerry Walker Third-Baseman Marv Owen and Rookie Catcher Tresh came to the White Sox from Detroit.

Cochrane gloated
Come this season and the developments of its first six weeks, and so far Cochrane has done the gloating. Gerry Walker is hitting a mere .286 and Marv Owen .274 for the White Sox. While Dixie Walker, who had been called "Brittle", has played in 31 of the Tigers' 32 games and has compiled a respectable .309 average.

The big thorn in Jimmy's side, however, has been Kennedy. Alf Vernon has done so far to win seven straight, pitching Detroit to a 5-2 victory with the aid of Hank Greenberg's 11th homer, a terrific 440-foot smash. Jimmy was fit to be tied.

The victory boosted the Tigers into fifth place in the American league over the White Sox. It was the only junior circuit game that got by Old Man Weather.

In the National league, two contests managed to escape the rain.
Bill Lee pitched a six-hit shutout, his second in two weeks, and Gabby Hartnett hammered a three-run homer to hand the Chicago Cubs a 5-0 win over Pittsburgh's revamped, but not improved, Pirates.
The victory boosted the Cubs to within two games of the league-leading New York Giants.

Cincinnati entertained at the first night game of the season with fireworks, a band concert, a classy pitchers' battle between the Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals. Johnny Vander Meer and the Reds finally bested Fiddler McGee, 2-1, in 10 innings, the winning run coming across on doubles by Spud
Davis and Harry Craft. Vander Meer hurled a five-hitter and fanned 10.

MAY'S WEATHER STOPPED 4-STAR SPECIAL EVENTS

Seabiscuit-War Admiral
Race, Armstrong-Ross
Bout Off

New York, May 28.—(AP)— May threatens to go down in local history as the month in which the most extra-special, four-star sports events did not take place.
First the heralded horse race between War Admiral and Sea-biscuit came down with the spavins, and now those two orphans of the storm, Barney Ross and Henry Armstrong, have been put off until Tuesday night. The weather being what it is, there's no guarantee they'll fight even then.

The whole thing is about to spoil
Mike Jacobs' sunny disposition.
Even if Barney and Henry do contrive to sneak in their scheduled 15 rounds Tuesday, there still will remain only three weeks in which Mike can steam up the Schmeling-Louis championship on June 22.

In Training Camps
Schmeling and Louis already have established their training camps, and Schmeling has been boxing for several days. Louis has taken over Armstrong's quarters at Pompton Lakes, leaving his smaller and even darker Negro friend no place to train except at Stillman's stuffy gymnasium here, which belonged to Ross by right of prior discovery.

Mike now admits he was forced into staging the Ross-Armstrong bout this month against his better judgment. He figured it would draw close to $300,000 in July.

But Lou Ambers, the lightweight ruler, beefed to the boxing commission that such an arrangement might deprive him of a big outdoor shot against the winner, and the commission agreed with him.
Now prevailing guess is that Armstrong and Ross will be lucky to draw more than $125,000.

league pitchers decided this week it was time to do something about Joe DiMaggio and Ducky Medwick. So they did it.

As a result, the Yankees' jolter and the Cardinals' clouter, who were riding along serenely at the head of their respective league batting races only a week ago, were dropped, at least temporarily, out of the running.

War Admiral Gets Severe Test With Heaviest Weight

New York, May 28.—(AP)—Packing the heaviest weight of his three years of racing, Samuel B.
Riddle's War Admiral goes to the post in the Suburban Handicap today in a test that may be even more severe.

The Admiral was given 132 pounds to carry over the mile and a quarter of the Suburban. That's two pounds more than he ever has had before in a race and more than Owner Riddle said he ever would load on to the mighty little son of Man O'War.

Jerome H. Louchheim's Pom-pon, which chased the triple-crown winner home in most of his important races last year, is expected to furnish most of the opposition.

Fans Anticipating Second Boxing Card Here Thursday Evening

Several Dixon Boys Listed in Coming Assembly Bout

Comment has been heard among boxing fans of this community favorable in nature and expressing anticipation of the next card to be held at 8:30 P. M. Thursday night, June 2, in the Assembly Park auditorium.

The Dixon Athletic Association will stage the regular fortnightly shows bringing together some of the best talent in northern Illinois.
Featured on the last card here,
Thursday, May 19, was Linto Guerrieri of Rock Falls who is national and international Golden Gloves boxing champion of the light-heavyweight division in the amateur ranks.

The card this week will match seven boys from the area representing Dixon against the winners of a recent tournament in the Tri-Cities of Davenport, Moline, and Rock Island.

Dixon will be well-represented on this week's card.

Boys who will compete for Dixon
Thursday night will be Edwood Mc-
Reynolds, Jimmy Forder, Kid
Harms, George Carlson, Alex Williams, Harry Kobbleman and Charley Smith. Only Charley Smith needs an introduction to the fight fans of this community. He is in the welterweight division and is rated by spectators and trainers as one of the scrappiest and hardest punchers ever to don the gloves here. He will be matched against Tom Hewitt.

George Carlson was undefeated two years ago in the 147-lb. class and has been in training the past two months. He will likely give a performance that will stamp him as a heavy favorite with the crowd. He will be paired with Chuck Calvert of Davenport who has amassed a record of eighteen straight victories.

Elwood McReynolds, four-times runner-up on the Chicago Golden Gloves team and 1937 alternate on the American team if he fought against picked European boxers, will headline the card. McReynolds will face Pete Hantz, Golden Glove champion of Freeport. Pete appeared on a card here two weeks ago and will for his knockout of Tommy Bullock last week.

Other bouts Thursday will match
Harms vs Goering, Kobbleman vs Morris, Williams vs Collins, and Forder vs Virgin.

Weather Lends New Twist To Big Ten Baseball Chase

Chicago, May 28.—(AP)—The weather gave a new twist to the Big Ten conference baseball race today, frowning on Iowa's chances of overtaking Indiana and assuring the Hoosiers of at least a tie if they can win their finale with Purdue.

Indiana stepped a full game ahead of Iowa yesterday by defeating Purdue, 6 to 2, and can end the season with eight wins against two setbacks by taking the second of the series today.

Iowa, rained out of its series opener with Ohio State yesterday, must win all three of its remaining games to finish with the same standing. Iowa's coach, Otto Vogel, said the Buckeye postponement would not be played off as a double-header today.

The Indiana-Purdue game was the only one played yesterday, rain also preventing Michigan's opener at Minnesota. The same schools meet again today and will be joined by Northwestern and Chicago, who clash at Evanston, Ill.

McKim Extends Tennis Ladder To Unlucky "13"

The Telegraph's tennis ladder underwent some repairs this week with the addition of Jack McKim's name to the list extending it to thirteen ranked players.

McKim defeated Goddard Tuesday and took over No. 12 position demoting Goddard to No. 13. All unranked challengers must still play Goddard in order to get a position on the ladder. McKim to advance will be required to meet Charles Kearney, No. 11, and Goddard seeking to escape the bottom position will be required to re-challenge McKim.

The score of the McKim-Goddard match was 2-6, 12-10, 6-4.

Dixon Nine Defends Loop Lead Against Ohio Rival Sunday

Illinois State League baseball teams will resume their warfare Sunday on all fronts in the third week of competition.

Dixon, leading the circuit will journey to Ohio which dropped a tough 12-inning 3 to 2 contest to Rochelle last Sunday. Rochelle will take on Paw Paw which lost 3 to 0 to Walton last week. Welland will invade West Brooklyn, and Walton and Maytown will engage in a hot battle for a share of the lead with Dixon.

Probably Eddie would have preferred to have his team lose if he had only have beaten his brother Gerry. These boys are in a nettle with my frater on an Indian course this weekend. However, it was not to be, for Gerry came back strong after a temporary restrain-ing order for Eddy had him one down at the end of two holes. The final score of this battle of the Jones Boys, was Gerry 53, Eddie 57.

Low score for the afternoon was

Brain Twizzlers

By PROF. J. D. FLINT

"I'LL BE AN OLD MAN BY TH' TIME I SOLVE THIS!"

Here is another bashful individual who is age-conscious. The only available information we have is this little story: My father and mother were married at the ages of thirty and seventeen respectively. I am the youngest in the family, being ten years younger than my brother who is next youngest, he being two years younger than my sister. My father died in nineteen twenty-seven at the age of seventy-two, he being thirty-five years older than my eldest brother who is two years my sister's senior.

How old is the bashful individual?

Answer to Yesterday's Twizzler
The sentence is: "Possessed of fun-loving perseverance and certain keenness of mind are those who streamline their minds by solving Brain Twizzlers." Copyright John F. Dille Co.

Los Angeles, May 28—(AP)—Police sought today to determine the cause of the death yesterday of 18-year-old Julia Hess, who came here with her sister, Agnes, 21, from Villa Grove, Ill., to seek work in the movies.

Agnes said that her sister had been in apparent good health, but that when she returned to their apartment yesterday she found Julia prostrate on the bed. The girl died as she was being removed to a hospital.

An autopsy was ordered. Police gave a box of patent medicine tablets found in the room to the county chemist for analysis.

SECOND HAND CIGARETTE TRADE HIT BY CHINESE WAR
Shanghai — (AP) — Small-fry manufacturers of cigarettes for Shanghai's coolie trade are complaining over the shortness of the cigarette butts they pick up from the streets. The butts constitute their principal source of tobacco supply.

Since the depression that followed Sino-Japanese hostilities in this area, Shanghai smokers have been getting the most out of a cigarette, and the butts they toss away are so small that they are practically worthless.

Octagon House

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far:

Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has aroused Quano-met. She was killed by a left handed blow from her sister's knife. Suspected Pam Frye disappears because someone smoking Turkish tobacco is trailing her to discover the whereabouts of $50,000.

Agreeable Tim Carr, boarder at the Frye's Octagon House, is left handed, smokes Turkish tobacco, and hated Marina. And Roddy Strutt, whose alibiing plane crash looks deliberate is offering a reward for the murderer. Asey goes to Octagon House to make sure Pam's ambergis is safely hidden. From an open window he hears Tim's grandmother ask him: "Where did the girl put it?"

Chapter 20

Enlightening Conversation
"I don't know," said Tim, "but by heaven I'm going to find it!"

"You will, Timmy. You will I know you will. And I hope that you don't let grass grow under your feet when you do."

Timothy laughed. "When I find it," he said, "When—well, I'll act, all right."

"But there's still the chance," Mrs. Carr said, "that it'll come to light some other way, even if you do manage to find it first. You can't guess how many people she might have told. And then there's Asey Mayo to consider."

"Don't you think I know it?" He believed us last night. But if he finds one break in our story, Tim, he'll turn those blue eyes on us—oh, dear, I don't like to think about it. Get along, and keep hunting. Hanson doesn't suspect you, does he?"

"Hanson," Tim said, "thinks I'm a perfect fool. It's the old Harold Lloyd influence, he thinks anyone with glasses like mine is a fool. Of course, he might have a brain wave. Very shortly it ought to occur to him that Pam Frye did not kill her sister, and then you can't predict where his fancy may turn. I've asked a lot of questions. And of course, there's Aaron."

"Frye won't talk," Mrs. Carr spoke with assurance. He wouldn't dream of talking. Why should he? Everything was so beautifully timed. We saved his skin, too."

"How about driving over and chatting with Comrade Mayo?" Tim suggested. "Shouldn't we continue this intense interest of ours in Right and Justice, and all?"

Mrs. Carr hesitated.

"I don't know. Too much, and he will suspect something. I wish he didn't seem to look at you as though he could read your private thoughts as well as your public utterances. That sort of calmly piercing gaze disorganizes me so. It's so bland. Like Emma Goldman watching that parrot, or waiting for her fish to cook. Yes, Tim, I should feel far more at home with Asey Mayo if our relations were on a more honest foundation. If he finds out about the movies—"

"Gran, what drab ideas you have! We implanted that movie idea firmly, and after all, we went to the movies, didn't we?"

"We implanted the movie idea," Mrs. Carr admitted, "at least, you did. And we went to the movies. But that will hardly matter if Asey Mayo happens to find out that we left the movies long before the time Marina was killed. And I wouldn't put it past him to find out. Get Emma—she's itching to jump up to that cage. Such an inhuman parrot! Just beady staring and staring. I wish it would talk."

"Perhaps," Timothy said, "it's a mercy that it doesn't."

"Perhaps so. Let's go out and take a walk. All these police around make me nervous."

The Coal Bin
Before Timothy picked up the cat, Asey ducked away and walked rapidly to the rear of the house.

"Say, mister," he said to the trooper, "I got to get into the cellar, can you find—"

"You can't go in the cellar," "Mister," the note of desperation in Asey's voice was not entirely assumed. He could hear Timothy and Mrs. Carr approaching the rear porch. "Mister, Pam said she'd leave the sprigs in a box for me, and I need 'em for this pane—"

"The what's in a box?" "Sprigs," Asey said. "Flat headed nails, like. Ain't you ever reset glass? One of them pane's half out. I got to get sprigs."

"All right, get 'em. Do you know where they are?"

"In the furnace room," Asey said. "At least, that's where Pam said she'd leave 'em. Can I go in this door?"

He was through it before the trooper had time to answer.

The door opened directly into the hallway that diagonally sliced the octagonal cellar. He paused by the circular staircase that led to the first floor, and removed from his hip pocket a battered tin box of sprigs. He had about eight or ten minutes, he decided, before the trooper would wander in. When he did come, Asey would have the box of sprigs at hand, ready to wave triumphantly under his nose.

In the meantime, he might see if Pam Frye had really hidden her ambergis in the cellar. There was an inside, built-in chute for coal attached to the window on which he had been working. Probably Pam had wheeled her barrow over from the Lorne's garage and dumped the ambergis, still covered with the tarpaulin, down the chute. Then, somehow, she had got it into the coal bin and covered it with coal.

He was so positive that the ambergis would be in under the coal that it came as a shock to find that it wasn't.

Pam might, of course, have wheeled the barrow directly in the back door. The abnormally high door sill would have presented a problem, but if she solved it, she might have left the ambergis in any one of the other rooms.

Asey began a cautious investigation. One of the rectangles was a laundry, with old-fashioned soapstone tubs. There was no trace of the ambergis there. The other odd rectangular room was fitted up as a workshop. Everything was in plain sight, and there were no closets or cubby holes in which to hide anything. The other triangle which matched the furnace room was empty except for an old churn and a dust mop. The two largest rooms, the peculiar six-sided things, were both jammed full of dusty furniture.

Nothing was big enough to hold the ambergis. The old trunks were far too small, and the lids were still opened from the frenzied search of Hanson's men for Pam Frye, the night before.

"You—oh, you in there!" "Yup," Asey put on his gold rimmed glasses. "I found my sprigs. They—where are you? They was—oh, I thought you was that cop."

He added as Aaron Frye walked up to him.

"Yes," Mr. Frye said. "Yes."

'I'm Inco'
He stared searchingly at Asey, and Asey stared back at him. He had almost forgotten what a distinguished looking man Aaron was, with his massive head and white hair that somehow canceled his slight stoop. His grey flannel suit was old, but neat and well cut.

"Yes," Mr. Frye said, obviously puzzled as to what Asey was doing and who he was anyway, "what is going on? I'm sure Pam never mentioned anything about having the windows fixed, although the gear Lord knows they need it. I should have got to it myself—see here, if you're more reporters—"

He stopped uncertainly. If Asey thought, he had happened to be more reporters, he could get an interview from Aaron Frye without half trying. He could almost feel the man trying to decide whether to dig to the root of the situation himself, or to call in the trooper.

"The last time you seen me," Asey said, "was at your wife's mother's house. A Fourth of July back—oh, ten years ago, easy. I was teachin' your daughter to sail around that time."

"Oh," Frye was obviously relieved, "you're—"

"Yup, but I'm inco," Asey told him. "Right now, I'm the man Pam hired to fix windows. I can't see why she didn't tell you. She made a point of my comin' here this afternoon. Name of Nickerson."

"Why, I do remember now, Nickerson," Frye played up nobly, once he had been given his cue. "Yes, indeed, Nickerson. I wonder if you could fix my study window? The latch is very bothersome. In fact," he added as they walked down the hall to the door, "it's really beyond repair, but Pam said she was certain you could fix it if anyone could. Ah, Shorty," he spoke to the trooper, "it's Nickerson, you know. Quite all right, really. My daughter did tell me that he was coming, but I forgot. I'm forgetful. Shorty knows how forgetful I am, too. He had to save the house from flames today when I absent-mindedly filled the old stove tank with water. I can't think why I never did before—it's all right if he fixes the latch on my window, isn't it, Shorty?"

"Sure, I guess so, Mr. Frye. Sure, all right. Go ahead. Hanson said no one was to come to see you, but he's gone till midnight."

In the book lined study at the front of the house, Aaron pulled up an old Morris chair and sat down.

"Where is she?"

Asey shook his head. "She was all right with me last night. Then she lit out. But I'm not worryin' about her, because I think she's one girl that can take care of herself. I'm not worryin' a bit about her. Now look—how absent-minded are you?"

Frye smiled. "Terribly, sometimes. As I was today about that stove. More often, as Pam knows, it's a matter of policy. A very polite method of ignoring things I don't want to be bothered with. Particularly town affairs. But if there's something you wish to tell me, and you're afraid I'll blurt it out—well, I think you may safely trust me."

"Have any idea what Pam found on the beach yesterday afternoon?" Asey asked.

Horner Committee Studies Election Revisions Today

Chicago, May 28.—(AP)—Governor Horner's special committee on proposed election law revisions today considered suggestions of civic leaders after concluding hearings yesterday.

Mrs. Harriett M. Robertson, president of the women's civic council said yesterday closed primary elections were necessary in Illinois to "guarantee the strength of the political party system and a Democratic form of government."

Mrs. Robertson said the council believed "each party should be protected in the formation, or carrying out, of its principles as represented by candidates selected by members of that party."

Among advocates of the open primary at which the voter could change party at will were Cook County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki,
